He also reported on the briefing and site tour of the Garvey Reservoir held on May 7 for aides of Congressman Matthew Martinez and Assemblywoman Diane Martinez, and city officials of Monterey Park. Chief of Operations Malinowski reported on the unusual rainfall on record for late 1996 and early 1997. With the aid of charts, he showed comparisons of the rainfall period, and reported that water supplies are good for this year. He also reported that the Operations Division held a groundwater and surface water seminar in Burbank for its member agencies and subagencies. He then introduced Assistant Chief of Operations Mike Young, who reported that the seminar on April 25 was a kick-off for the Joint Program Advisory Committee made up of member agencies and Metropolitan's staff. The committee, working with the Rate Refinement Group, will be working on improvements to the Seasonal Storage Program. Mr. Malinowski further reported on the preparation for the shutdown of the Newhall Tunnel to repair the oil collection system, working with Calleguas and Las Virgenes Municipal Water Districts and the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power. Because of the extreme high temperature in Calleguas' service area and with expected water demands exceeding the supplies available absent the Newhall tunnel, the repair work had to be canceled and the shutdown will be rescheduled for next winter. He then introduced Alan Lerchbacker, Operations and Maintenance Manager, who described the preparation for the work on the Newhall Tunnel.

Chief Financial Officer Becker reported on Metropolitan's financial condition. Mr. Becker referred to two articles written by members of the Finance and Business Services staff that were recently published in national magazines, and distributed to the Directors. The first article is titled "Stable Financing for a Stable Water Supply" and was written by Mr. Becker and Christopher Portner of his staff. It describes the process used to prepare the 1995 update of Metropolitan's Long-Range Finance Plan, and was published in the April edition of Government Finance Review, a national publication for the Government Finance Officers Association. The second article is titled "Do You Really Need an Insurance Broker?" and was prepared by three authors, including Metropolitan's Risk Manager, Barbara Anderson. It describes the process of putting together an insurance program and examines the roles of risk managers and insurance brokers, and was published in "Defining Moments in Risk Management", a record of the 1997 Risk and Insurance Management Society Annual Conference Proceedings.

Directors Hill and O'Neil withdrew from the Meeting at 2:08 p.m.

Chief of Planning and Resources Man reported on one of the on-going projects in Metropolitan's Local Resources Program, the Orange County Water District's Green Acres Project which provides recycled water for landscape irrigation to more than 30 sites in Costa Mesa, Santa Ana, and Fountain Valley. She then introduced Bill Mills, General Manager of the Orange County Water District, who described the innovative use of recycled water from the project. Ms. Man stated the project is jointly operated by the city of Santa Ana and the Orange County Water District (OCWD), with the city providing the operation and maintenance service on the distribution system, and OCWD operating and maintaining the water treatment facility in Fountain Valley. She further stated that OCWD will begin construction to extend the existing distribution system into Newport Beach, and that Metropolitan has executed a 25-year joint participation agreement under the Local Resources Program for this 7,000-acre-foot project. Metropolitan's member agencies participating in the project include Municipal Water District of Orange County, Coastal Municipal Water District, and the City of Santa Ana, she advised.

United States Bureau of Reclamation brought by Southwest Center, which seeks to have the Bureau release from 3- to 5-million acre-feet of water from Lake Mead in order to save from total inundation some trees in which the flycatcher resides. He also reported on the Bay-Delta Accord case. This was challenged by the County of San Joaquin, with the trial court holding that it would not enjoin the Bureau of Reclamation for CVP operations, and the Court of Appeal upheld the dismissal of that action. Mr. Taylor announced that the National Marine Fisheries Service has extended the time in which to comment on the essential fish habitat regulations for endangered species included in the aquatic habitat, which they are required to adopt, and the new deadline date is June 23, 1997. He referred to a letter dated May 2, 1997, addressed to Bruce Babbitt, Secretary of the Department of the Interior, and to William M. Daley, Secretary of Commerce, in which Metropolitan was a signatory regarding the No Surprises Policy. Mr. Taylor further reported that Senator Diane Feinstein spoke favorably of an exemption from the Endangered Species Act to repair the flood damage in the Central Valley and that the Act should not be interpreted to prevent essential services.

Chairman, Board of Directors

May 13, 1997

Dear Jack:

This letter is to express opposition to Board Item 8-2, Re-Authorization for the General Manager to Purchase Metropolitan Bonds in the Secondary Market. This item would allow up to $75 million be spent from MWD's Pay-As-You-Go (PAYG) fund to retire debt. I urge the Board not to approve this authorization.

Staff stated at yesterday's Budget and Finance Committee meeting that if repurchases occur, they would be within MWD's annual $90 million PAYG limit. Because of the infrequent occurrence of secondary market conditions that would make such purchases advantageous to MWD, there is no need for such authorization. Not only would the bonds have to sell at less than par value as indicated in the Board letter, consideration should also be given to lost interest earnings on the cash being utilized to retire debt. In this case, retiring long term debt with commercial paper may be a better alternative.

If the purpose of the authorization is actually to "reduce outstanding debt of the District and increase equity of the District" with PAYG funds, as stated in the Board letter, then this would result in cost shifting from future ratepayers to current ratepayers. If excess PAYG funds are available, then refunds should be given to the member agencies. Excess funds should not be used to buy down MWD's own debt. Local governments are struggling to repair and build their infrastructure and if excess reserves collected from them were returned, all ratepayers would be better off.

I hope you will give this serious consideration, and urge the Board not to support the staff recommendation.

Sincerely,

Joe Parker, Member
Board of Directors
