General Manager Kightlinger reported that the Colorado River Aqueduct was taken out of service on March 6 for dewatering and repair work and service will resume on March 27. He stated that coupled with the series of shutdowns at the treatment plants, much of the maintenance and repair work that have been deferred for a number of decades will be accomplished. Also during that time period, staff will do a thorough inspection throughout the system for quagga mussels in order to eliminate them. Recently, the quagga mussels were found in Copper Basin at a much deeper depth than was expected. He was there for the Delta Stakeholder Committee as part of the Governor's process, which include general managers, environmentalists, and other stakeholders working on Delta issues. General Counsel Tachiki reported on the ongoing Cargill litigation (temporary workers' lawsuit) in that the CalPERS board would not be considering the settlement in March, but would do so at its April meeting.

General Counsel Tachiki reminded the Directors to fill out and return their Form 700s (relating to the Fair Political Practices Commission) so they could be processed in time to meet the deadline.

He stated that three Audit Reports, Local Resources Water Recycling Projects Audit Report, J. F.
