Metropolitan Cases

Jolene Fuentes v. Metropolitan (Riverside County Superior Court)

Metropolitan employee Jolene Fuentes filed a first amended complaint for damages on May 28, 2019, in Riverside County Superior Court against Metropolitan. Plaintiff alleges four causes of action based on the Fair Employment and Housing Act: sex discrimination/harassment; failure to maintain environment free from harassment; failure to take preventative action; and, retaliation. Metropolitan was served with the complaint on June 26, 2019. The Legal Department is representing Metropolitan.

DMS Facility Services, LLC v. Metropolitan, et al. (Los Angeles County Superior Court)

As previously reported, DMS Facility Services, LLC ("DMS"), a former vendor that provided MWD with engineers and other personnel, filed a lawsuit alleging MWD failed to pay outstanding balances on invoices for accrued unpaid leave time for DMS employees who worked at MWD. The lawsuit alleged causes of action for: (1) Breach of Written Agreement, (2) Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing, and (3) Violations of California Labor Code Sections 227.3 and 2810.3. After MWD objected, DMS filed a first amended complaint on April 17, 2019, that dropped the Labor Code violations from the lawsuit. On July 3, 2019, the Superior Court granted Metropolitan's demurrer to the remaining causes of action, and provided DMS with 30 days leave to file a second amended complaint. DMS intends to allege promissory estoppel, and in response MWD will likely demurrer again. The Legal Department is representing Metropolitan. Matters Impacting Metropolitan

Court Extends Time Again for EPA to Respond to Alleged Violations of the Safe Drinking Water Act

On June 14, 2019, the U.S. District Court, Southern District of New York, granted the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's ("EPA") third request for an extension of time until August 19, 2019, to respond to a lawsuit alleging that EPA failed to comply with the deadlines set by the Safe Drinking Water Act ("SDWA") to: (1) review and revise existing drinking water regulations; and (2) identify and regulate new contaminants. EPA requested the extension in light of the parties' ongoing settlement discussions. The Waterkeeper Alliance, Waterkeepers Chesapeake, and California Coastkeeper Alliance sued EPA on January 30, 2019, alleging that EPA failed to update maximum contaminant levels ("MCLs") for certain contaminants such as tetrachloroethylene, trichloroethylene, cryptosporidium, and total chromium/hexavalent chromium. For example, EPA determined in 2010 that tetrachloroethylene and trichloroethylene were candidates for regulatory revision. However, EPA has not yet revised their MCLs. Similarly, EPA set the MCL for total chromium at 100 parts per billion ("ppb") in 1991, but has not revised it since then.

Plaintiffs also allege that EPA repeatedly missed the SDWA's deadline to determine every five years whether or not to regulate five or more contaminants on the Contaminant Candidate List ("CCL"), which is a list of drinking water contaminants that are known or anticipated to occur in public water systems, but are not currently regulated by EPA. Furthermore, EPA has still not published its fourth regulatory determination, which was due by August 6, 2016. Additionally, they assert that EPA did not meet the SDWA's deadline to publish the CCL every five years, and EPA still has not published the fifth CCL, which was due by February 6, 2018. The groups contend that "EPA's delays and inaction with respect to regulating the quality of the nation's drinking water puts the public at unnecessary and unacceptable risk." Metropolitan staff will continue to monitor this litigation and any potential settlement.
